Delaware State Housing Authority's 2005 Housing Services Directory is released

The Delaware State Housing Authority (DSHA) today publicly released its 2005 Housing Services Directory, a comprehensive guide to Delaware's housing providers and the various services available to assist low- and moderate-income individuals and families.

DSHA Director Sandy Johnson explained, "The Housing Services Directory is a useful guide to anyone interested in locating affordable housing services in Delaware. It is helpful to state and local housing agencies, social service professionals and the general public as they search for affordable housing options in Delaware."

The publication lists more than 100 agencies and highlights those that provide homeownership, housing rehabilitation and rental assistance. It also contains a list of affordable and subsidized rental housing sites throughout the state, as well as agencies that serve special needs populations and provide emergency and transitional housing.

To obtain a copy of the 2005 Housing Services Directory, contact the Public Information Office at Delaware State Housing Authority at (302) 739-4263. The purchase price of $15 helps to defray production and mailing expenses. The complete directory can be accessed at DSHA's website: www2.state.de.us/dsha.
